global engagement through internships, field courses and field semesters, research internships, international competitions, and international exchanges. In particular, we will double the proportion of undergraduate students undertaking these global engagements. To facilitate this, over the next five years we will establish a special enriched annual educational opportunities and student mobility fund of $5M,² reduce administrative barriers to achieving transfer credit, and expand the number of co-tutelle programs with partner universities.

We will further enhance McGill's presence abroad by developing key partnerships to support research act
